Respecting and protecting human rights is a top priority for Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd ("Samsung") and is codified and enforced through Samsung’s Code of Conduct. Samsung has a zero tolerance policy against workers paying fees for their employment.

Migrant workers are often vulnerable to the risk of forced, bonded, or indentured labor as well as human trafficking as they are seeking economic opportunities outside their own country due to unstable political or economic situation in their home countries. As a result, migrant workers have been identified as a key risk group who are at heightened risk for adverse human rights impacts. Consequently, this policy has been developed and updated to commit to the protection of migrant workers and support compliance with international standards and regulations within its worksites.

Samsung strongly supports the right of voluntary work and is committed to banning participation in, or imposition of, forced labor, bonded (including debt bondage) or indentured labor, involuntary or exploitive prison labor, slavery or trafficking of persons as articulated in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families, The International Convention on Migrant Workers, the relevant conventions\(^1\) by the International Labor Organization ("ILO") as well as stipulated in relevant legislations such as the California Transparency in Supply Chains Act and the UK Modern Slavery Act.

In addition, Samsung is committed to respect the fundamental human rights of workers including international human rights principles and standards set forth in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development’s guidelines for multinational enterprises, the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, and the laws of the countries in which we operate. Our respect of fundamental human rights does apply to all workers in an equal manner including migrant workers.

\(^1\) ILO refer to "Forced Labour Convention, 1930 (No. 29)" and "Abolition of Forced Labour Convention, 1957 (No. 105)"
As a dedicated member of the Responsible Business Alliance (RBA), Samsung is also committed to fully align with RBA’s Code of Conduct\(^2\), a core requirement that contains a set of standards on social, environmental and ethical issues in the electronics industry supply chain and the additional RBA Trafficked and Forced Labor – “Definition of Fees” policy.

Reflecting on the above commitment, Migrant Worker Policy (the “Policy”) sets out minimum requirements for the ethical and transparent recruitment process, essential for the eradication of forced, bonded, or indentured labor and human trafficking of migrant workers.

Samsung shall review and update this Policy on a regular basis to ensure compliance with changes in applicable laws and regulations and to ensure consistency with Samsung’s values.
